

Answer Writing

AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Q. Discuss the Consequences of American Revolution.

A. American Revolution

It was a political revolution carried by the 13 Colonised states of North America to gain freedom from British rule.

Consequences

> Political

- American gain freedom in 1787 and united together form a Nation called United States of America.
- Formation of a Republic which ended the Monarchical system of governance. The idea to choose a leader or ruler from among the common people emerged.
- A constitution was formed in which all the rules and regulation to be followed were laid down for the first time.

> Economic

- The restrictions imposed by the Britishers on the Industries were all removed, meaning now USA could produce its own goods and sell it independently anywhere.
- Trade with rest of the world was opened directly for America. Navigation laws were formed according to the needs of US market.

- Industries were set-up in large quantities, seeing a Industrial Revolution Emerging in America Capitalists were free to produce whatever they wished and sell wherever they wanted around the world. This became the base for America to rise as a economic power in succeeding century.

> Social

- Strong Economy raised the capital of the country, in turn increasing the standard of living of the common people.
- Money empowered the life of the people through Education creating conscious and active citizens.
- Society which was aware of its rights and priviledges was born.

Conclusion

The common cause of liberation gave rise to a concept of Nationalism and Republicanism which inspired all of the world in one way or another. It became an ~~ex~~ example to fight oppression and raise voice against wrong, and promote human right.